

Medical Malpractice and Health Care

Kaufman Dolowich's Medical Malpractice group provides an array of legal services to the health care industry. Our attorneys have experience representing physicians, dentists, optometrists, nurses, hospitals, nursing homes and other health care providers. Kaufman Dolowich attorneys have extensive trial experience in all areas of medicine and — in keeping with the firm's philosophy — are ready to take any case to trial or secure the best settlement possible when the circumstances dictate.

While our Medical Malpractice group is retained by insurance companies to defend their insureds, our team is also retained privately by medical professionals and health care organizations regarding traditional medical malpractice defense work. In addition, the firm also provides legal consultation on issues such as employment matters, privacy/cyber breaches, labor negotiations and regulatory and administrative services before various government agencies.