

ALADN Conference 2016

Join Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck (KD) attendees at the ALADN Conference 2016.

About: What is ALADN? Founded in 1995, ALADN is the Academic Library Advancement and Development Network – a professional network of academic library fundraising professionals, university librarians, and deans who practice in North America who work to raise money from individuals, corporations, and foundations to fund library resources, products, programs, and initiatives. Attendees from academic libraries across the United States and Canada gather annually to share innovations, best practices, and organizational successes related to fundraising for libraries, including communication and marketing strategies.

For more information, click here.