Vincent Green mentioned in the Los Angeles Business Journal for his 3rd military-justice novel

Attorney Booked Up

Los Angeles Business Journal (September 23, 2013)

Trial attorney Vince Green, a partner at Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck in Brentwood, considers himself a storyteller, both on and off the job. “When you get in front of a jury, you’re telling a story,” he said. And Green, 59, argues that writing fiction isn't much different. In addition to his courtroom cases, he’s spent the last seven years writing a novel, “Conduct Unbecoming.” It’s about a high-powered entertainment attorney in Los Angeles who is forced to defend someone he hates: a military judge accused of a grisly murder.
