

IP Litigation

Although litigation is often a cost of doing business, the attorneys at KD understand the importance of practicality for your organization. KD's experienced intellectual property attorneys effectively and efficiently address all of their clients' litigation needs, whether relating to patents, copyrights, trademarks, trade dress, trade secrets, licensing, or representations and warranties for intellectual property.

The attorneys at KD have represented clients in matters across a broad spectrum of technologies and industries, including but not limited to computer software, telecommunications, "big data" service providers, online and mobile applications, hardware, firmware, biotech, "green-tech," and medical devices. Whatever your intellectual property needs are, your team at KD will be rigorously dedicated to your representation, while being cost-effective.