

Back to Work: Assistance for Employers

As businesses reopen across the country, Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck LLP (KDV) wants to help make the transition as smooth as possible for employers. Government authorities around the United States have strongly suggested that employers implement a Safety Plan outlining the steps being taken by businesses to prevent the spread of COVID-19. To that end, KDV has created three sample documents to help employers prepare for their employees to return to work. The documents linked hereto are: (a) a sample COVID-19 Response Plan; (b) Employee Health Survey, and (c) Visitor Health Acknowledgment Form. All templates are provided compliments of KDV.

We invite business owners to use these templates to formulate their own return to work plan and suggest that businesses also consult directives issued by state and local authorities to ensure their plan is in compliance. The attorneys in KDV's Labor and Employment Law Group are available to assist employers craft their individual plans. Some business related guidance for the following locations can be found below:

New York

New Jersey

Chicago

Los Angeles

San Francisco

Sonoma

Florida

Ft. Lauderdale

Orlando

Pennsylvania

Philadelphia

The Labor & Employment attorneys at KDV have marshalled their resources and experience to provide guidance on any challenges business owners may face at this transitional time. Stay safe.

Disclaimer: The samples provided herein are for general informational purposes only and do not constitute legal advice. Employers should carefully review and discuss these materials with their KDV counsel to tailor the materials to their specific business needs.