

Cameron Stewart's arrival at Kaufman Dolowich mentioned on Bloomberg

Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck Adds Partner in Firm's LA Office

From Bloomberg (Aug 23, 2013)

Cameron Stewart joined Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck LLP as a partner in the firm's Los Angeles office. Stewart has more than 15 years of experience in all aspects of employment law.

Stewart's practice focuses on defending employers in employment discrimination, harassment and wrongful discharge cases in state and federal courts and administrative agencies. She represents employers and management in litigation and preventive counseling, wage and hour matters, wrongful termination, Title VII and the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, and sexual harassment training and investigations.

Stewart had been a member in the Sherman Oaks, California, office of Nemecek & Cole. Before that, Stewart was managing partner of the Los Angeles office of Johnnie L. Cochran Jr.'s law firm, The Cochran Firm, where she was a plaintiff's lawyer and chairman of its employment litigation department.

"Cameron's experience representing both plaintiffs and defendants gives her the two perspectives that will be tremendously beneficial to our clients," said Michael A. Kaufman, co-managing partner of the firm.