

Nancy L. Hendrickson

Overview

Nancy L. Hendrickson focuses her practice in the area of securities litigation, having prosecuted and defended complex securities fraud, antitrust and fraudulent conveyance cases; matters involving margin, liquidation and market manipulation issues; and customer complaints alleging churning, unauthorized trading or suitability claims. Ms. Hendrickson has also represented clients in connection with investigations, disciplinary actions and enforcement proceedings initiated by self-regulatory organizations, state securities commissioners and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In employment law, Ms. Hendrickson has represented employers and employees in wrongful/retaliatory discharge claims, deferred and other compensation-related disputes, and injunction hearings in more than 30 states across the country involving non-compete, non-solicitation and non-disclosure agreements. She has also been involved in the prosecution of several employee raiding cases resulting in multimillion dollar awards, as well as the successful defense of such cases.

Ms. Hendrickson has practiced at several large national and international law firms in Chicago previous to joining Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck. She has regularly appeared in state and federal courts throughout the United States, as well as before various governmental agencies and arbitration panels.
